the book describes up to date applications and relevant theoretical results these applications come from various places but the most important one numerically speaking is the internet based educational system aleks the aleks system is bilingual english spanish and covers all of mathematics from third grade to the end of high school and chemistry it is also widely used in higher education because us students are often poorly prepared when they reach the university level the chapter by taagepera and arasasingham deals with the application of knowledge spaces independent of aleks to the teaching of college chemistry the four chapters by albert and his collaborators strive to give cognitive interpretations to the combinatoric structures obtained and used by the aleks system the contribution by eppstein is technical and develops means of searching the knowledge structure efficiently lost amid the debate over educational policies are the stories of the educators parents and students who are most affected by legislation such as no child left behind and race to the top in educational courage veteran educators and activists nancy schniedewind and mara sapon shevin bring together the voices of those who are resisting market driven initiatives such as high stakes testing charter schools mayoral control and merit pay the diverse narrators who write in this volume confront the educational agendas that undermine teachers judgment and knowledge ignore the different backgrounds of students and parents and debase the learning process yet these educators parents and activists also offer stories of resistance and hope as they fight to uphold the ideals of democratic public education this book explores the implementation of performance based assessments for preservice teachers across various state and institutional contexts it includes research on faculty and students perceptions curricular reform and program alignment the chapters highlight experiences during high stakes situations and institutional policy adoption this volume documents the growth of a new kind of interdisciplinary teamwork that is evolving among practitioners researchers teacher educators and community partners its premise the design of learning environments and the development of theory must proceed in a mutually supportive fashion scientific researchers have learned that a prerequisite to studying the kinds of learning that matter is helping to shoulder the responsibility for ensuring that these forms of learning occur to support and study learning researchers are increasingly making major and long term investments in the design and maintenance of contexts for learning practitioners are assuming new roles as well reflecting an increasing awareness of the need to move beyond skillful doing if developing learning contexts are to be protected within and expanded beyond the systems that surround them it is necessary to foster professional communities that will support reflection about practice including the generation and evaluation of rich and flexible environments for student thinking one consequence of recent reforms is that teachers are increasingly regarding such tasks as central to their professional development innovations in learning new environments for education describes coordinated interaction between educational design on the one hand and the development of learning theory on the other through a series of examples these examples have been chosen because they are continuing proven programs with evidence of success contributors to the volume are researchers and practitioners who have played a role in inventing these programs and have guided their development over a period of years rather than choosing illustrations of a pipeline or application model of research from research and then to practice the editors of this volume have selected interventions in which researchers and practitioners work together persistently to forge common understanding such activity is necessarily interdisciplinary often encompassing long spans of time and is more akin to engineering in the field than to laboratory science the common themes that emerge from this activity for example the role of tools talk and community belong exclusively neither to theory nor to practice but to their intersection in commitment to specific contexts of learning and continuing contributions to practice and underlying theory this volume is organized into three sections that reflect different levels and kinds of learning contexts each of these levels has been the focus of recent cognitive and reform applications to learning and schooling the first offers examples of effective learning in informal settings the second discusses innovative approaches to schooling at the classroom level and the third reviews reforms that regard the entire school as the appropriate unit of change
